

“White County Community Hospital is on our team!”

— John and Josh Cumming —

John (left) and Josh (right) Cumming were members of the 2010 White County High School football team that went to the state playoffs. John was a nose guard for the Warriors, and Josh played wide receiver. But to make it through the season, they both needed the help of White County Community Hospital.

In August 2010, John suffered a heat stroke during a two-a-day football practice. “He started cramping up during the morning session,” remembers Angela, John’s mother. “The school called immediately, and we rushed to the emergency room at White County Community Hospital, where John had to stay overnight.”

Later in the football season, Josh tore two of the three ligaments in his ankle during practice. Dr. Jeffrey Loveland, a podiatrist with White County Community Hospital, surgically repaired the ankle. “You could not ask for a better doctor,” says Angela. “The surgery went well, and Josh’s ankle healed completely.”

“I’m a big believer in staying close to home for healthcare, especially when you have a hospital like ours,” says Angela. “My family has always gotten really good care there. It’s the hospital we trust.”
